DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 4/11/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
2. The scope of the applicant's composition claims and process claims are clearly different and would require different analysis by the examiner. It is well known that process claim limitations are treated differently not only in prosecution but also in which terms are afforded greatest weight. In a composition claim the material limitations are given a greater weight than the intended use. In contrast, in process claims the intended use, substrate, process limitations are given equal weight with those material limitations found in the composition. These differences are substantial enough that two separate classes have been created as stated in the previous restriction. As such the restriction is maintained.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Art Unit: 1751

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

4. Claims 1-4, 6, 7, 21, and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cook (US4961870).

Concerning the dichloroethylene, the alcohol, the alkylene oxide, the alkoxy phenol and the 4-methoxyphenol, Cook teaches the following comparative examples:

The stabilized azeotrope-like composition of Example 19 is 60 weight percent CFC-113; 37 weight percent trans-1,2-dichloroethylene; 3 weight percent 2-methyl-2-propanol; 200 parts per million 1,2-butylene oxide; and 200 parts per million 4-methoxyphenol. The stabilized azeotrope-like composition of Example 20 is 60 weight percent CFC-113; 37 weight percent trans-1,2-dichloroethylene; 3 weight percent 3-pentanol; 200 parts per million 1,2-butylene oxide; and 200 parts per million 4-methoxyphenol. (emphasis added)
